Kaposvár

Somogy County and its capital, Kaposvár are located amongst the hills of Southern Transdanubia, between River Dráva and Lake Balaton. The city is built on seven hills between River Kapos and the Zselic hills and its history goes back to the start up of Hungary.

Kaposvár is a human city, easy to love and to live in. A place that inhabitants enjoy and this feeling is taken over by the tourists. The great atmosphere is provided by the nice and tidy environment, the flowers, the fountains, and many statues. Every visitor from spring to autumn can find the city in full bloom and also can always join a festival or great event.

The city trustworthily preserves the memory of its famous painter, József Rippl- Rónai in culture and in its museums. In 2017 the town deservedly won the special award of the Competition of European Towns and Villages (Entente Florale Europe): "The most beautiful main square of Europe".

Kaposvár is accessible for anyone who is disabled or impaired, therefore the town and the Zselic area were awarded the title of EDEN – Excellent Destination in Europe by the European Committee.

Memorial House and Visitor Centre of Rippl-Rónai

The Villa Roma, sight of Kaposvár is famous all over Europe. It used to be József Rippl-Rónai's home. Each corner of the Museum as well as the connecting atelier is preserving the heritage and spirituality of the big artist. Since 2012, the new underground visitor centre is available with wheelchair accessible reception area and a souvenir shop. The reconstruction of the Andrassy Dining Room, one of the first Hungarian art nouveau interiors, is an award winning exhibition piece of the visitor centre.

Memorial House and Visitor Centre of Rippl-Rónai (Andrassy Dining Room)

The Andrassy Dining Room was assembled according to a uniform visualisation of an Art Nouveau interior. It is the first really significant collection of objects of Hungarian applied arts. We know it as a whole and its details only from old photography, owing to the destruction of the World War I. It was fully destroyed at the Andrassy Mansion in Tiszadob in 1918. The letters and the plans nevertheless could offer an opportunity to get an insight into the designer mind of Rippl-Rónai. Our Museum was awarded the Exhibition of the Year Price in 2013.

Our Tell-Tale Houses and Sculptures

Town Hall (Kossuth square)

The determining building of the square is the City Hall built in 1902 in neo-renaissance style. The ornaments of its staircase, its glass windows, its assembly hall adorned with wainscoting provides a unique beauty. The tower of the building is 40 meters high. The bells under the terrace greet the visitors and the citizens 5 minutes before each hour since 2002. Visitors should read the memorial boards placed on the walls of the building, and they may also touch the model of the Main Square.

The Dorottya House (1 Fő street)

The steward's home was built upon the order of the Eszterházy family. It used to be the centre of the prince's lordship. Today it is one of the oldest buildings of Kaposvár. In 1798 a huge festivity was held here in honour of Széchenyi Ferenc, on the occasion of his inauguration as county governor. Csokonai Vitéz Mihály was amongst the guests, and this event inspired his epic comedy: Dorottya, or the triumph of Dames. On the left side of the baroque building you can see the poet's bust. The building is currently under renovation.

Kemény Palace (8 Fő street)

The Tourism Information Office of Kaposvár (TOURINFORM) awaits visitors in the very middle of Fő utca, the one of the nicest main street of Hungary. The interesting, neo-renaissance building was erected in 1904. This house used to be the home of the first music school of our town.

Arany Oroszlán Pharmacy (19 Fő street)

The house was built in 1774. The monument building is under national protection. On the left side of the building the piece of art of Trischler Ferenc reminds us of the times when Rippl-Rónai József came to town on his donkey carriage.

Csiky Gergely Theatre (Rákóczi square)

Walking to the south of the Main Street we can admire the most beautiful Art Nouveau-style building of our town (1911). One of the most decisive theatres of nowadays was renovated and fully renewed, observed the scheduled monument feature and now it is modern and magnificent. The first fountain of our city (1913), called 'Dancing Couples', standing in front of the building, was produced by the Zsolnay manufactory of Pécs.

House of Adam and Eve (4 Kontrássy street)

One of the most interesting Art Nouveau buildings of Kaposvár was erected in 1904. Next to the traditional Art Nouveau motifs the balcony windows are framed with Adam and Eve in Paradise. At that time those naked figures provoked great public indignation in Kaposvár.

Rainbow Palace of Culture (1 Noszlopy G. street)

The largest cinema of Kaposvár was opened in 1928. The former City Cinema, then Red Star, then Rainbow Cinema was renewed in 2010. The favourite movie theatre of the locals of Kaposvár is ornated by Egyptian motives both inside and outside. Due to its excellent acoustic characters, the culture palace hosts music events. Weeber Klára's sculptor work, Florentine awaits all those who wish to share their secrets to someone.

The Birthplace of Juan Gyenes (10 Ady Endre street)

The king of photographers – the photographer of kings was born as Gyenes János in this building. The royal photographer of the Spanish court referred to this place proudly, as 'at the gate of the house where I learned the craft was written: Holczer Félix photographer to the left in the yard'. The façade of the building is under protection.

There are two nice sculptures in front of the Cathedral at the Main Square. On the right hand side you can admire the baroque statue of the patron saint of Kaposvár, St. John Nepomuki. It is one of the oldest statues of our town. On the left hand side of the building we can see the rococo-style sandstone statue of the Virgin Mary. Both statues have very interesting stories.

Ady Endre street (the former Korona street) used to belong to the town's merchants. It is one of the oldest streets of Kaposvár. The signboard representing a black elephant used to advertise a small store selling coffee and spices. The elephant disappeared in the 1930s. Its replica was ordered by the Kaposvár Urban Association in 2014. Ady Endre, the poet visited Kaposvár twice. He wrote his poem titled Autumn Sundays of Little Towns here. The composition of Sculptor Gera Katalin captures the meeting of Ady and Rippl-Rónai József together with his favourite dog, Hepi. Europa square is embellished with a fountain – a common feature of Kaposvár – and the work of sculptor Bors István called "Sunwheel". No one should pass by Weeber Klara sculptor's "Handstand" without caressing it. The little clown brings luck.
